LAYLA'S TRUST

layla's trust is an island based charity helping bereaved families who have lost children and families who have children with life limiting disabilities and terminal illnesses they try to remain as flexible as possible in how they help the families who need it, as they understand that every family, child and circumstance are all different and personal to them the majority of financial support goes toward helping families with weekly financial assistance when undergoing mainland treatment under their 'crisis aid' programme they also work to support the local hospital, other organisations and the community teams in improving facilities and services where possible for families to ensure they help only families that truly need it, they work closely with the children's community nursing team and other departments at st mary's hospital where they get the majority of their referrals they also work closely with other local and national charities, networking to ensure that families get the best overall care package that is possible for their circumstances a BIG thank you to all the MOOs who supported this charity last night
